Now that Jesus has arrived in Jerusalem and his ministry is centred at the temple, he encounters the Sadducees, who dominate temple worship. The question posed by the Sadducees in this text was not asked to elicit his teaching on this point but rather in an attempt to ridicule Jesus and disconcert him. But Jesus turns the tide and gives two answers to their question. First, he points out that they have completely misunderstood what resurrection is. The transformation of life brought by death is incomprehensible to them because they are not open to the power of God. Second, he points out that even though Abraham, Isaac and Jacob have died, Moses is conscious that they must remain alive in a sense because Yahweh continues to be their God—a God of the living. Death is not the end of the story and Christian faith is marked by a joy and hope that ultimately resting in God will bring. This is the destiny of the human person.

November is the month when the church remembers especially those who have died. Memorise and pray this prayer for the dead often this week, remembering your own loved ones:

Eternal rest grant to them, O Lord.
May perpetual light shine upon them.
May they rest in peace. Amen.

Congratulations Tyrone on receiving the Sacraments of Confirmation and First Holy Communion two weeks ago. It was such a joyous occasion with Bishop Steve in attendance and so very special being the only candidate.

It is fitting that this final text from the Gospel of Luke brings together some dominant themes and proclaims the kingship of Jesus. Throughout this liturgical year we have noted the radical reversal which is at the heart of the Gospel. Christ is proclaimed a king, not in a scene of glorious enthronement, but as a broken man upon a cross. The kingship of Jesus is revealed, paradoxically, in the moment of his deepest humiliation.

Throughout the Gospel, Jesus seeks out and saves the lost, and here it is a common criminal, rightly condemned, who proclaims the kingdom which Jesus is to inhabit. True to form, the compassionate Jesus of Luke's Gospel assures him of salvation, just as he had prayed for forgiveness for those who had brought him to this point.

Sunday 13th November 2022
“Jesus Christ... for your sakes became poor” (cf. 2 Cor 8:9).

With these words, the Apostle Paul addresses the first Christians of Corinth in order to encourage their efforts to show solidarity with their brothers and sisters in need. The World Day of the Poor comes this year as a healthy challenge, helping us to reflect on our style of life and on the many forms of poverty all around us.

May this 2022 World Day of the Poor be for us a moment of grace. May it enable us to make a personal and communal examination of conscience and to ask ourselves whether the poverty of Jesus Christ is our faithful companion in life.
